THE WESTERN SHOSHONE
OF THE GREAT BASIN

Guide to Articles on the Western Shoshones
in the Native Nevadan
(1964-1989)

Compiled by Steven Crum, Ph.D.
(Western Shoshone)

Introduction

This guide, covering the years 1964 to 1989, is a compilation of Native Nevadan newspaper articles relating to the Western Shoshone people of the Great Basin. It includes all articles about the Shoshones who live within or adjacent to indigenous Western Shoshone territory in Nevada and part of southeastern California.

The Native Nevadan was first published in 1964 as the official newsletter of the then newly-created Inter-Tribal Council of Nevada (ITC-N). In 1965 the newsletter's status was eliminated and the paper was given its present name. As time progressed the operation of the Native Nevadan was transferred from the ITC-N to the Reno-Sparks Indian Colony. Despite these changes, the monthly newspaper has always been the voice of the Western Shoshone, Northern Paiute, Southern Paiute, and Washoe peoples of the Great Basin.

Like other native-run newspapers, the Native Nevadan is nationally-recognized and has been widely circulated since its inception. Complete or near complete sets of back issues can be found at three places: the Native Nevadan office of the Reno-Sparks Colony; the Special Collections Division in the library of the University of Nevada-Reno (UNR); and the Special Collections of the University of Utah (Salt Lake City). Most back issues have been reproduced on microfilm and microfiche. The microfilm version is available for use in the Microfilm Division of the UNR Library. The microfiche edition (1965-1976), available for purchase, is part of the collection of "American Indian Periodicals in the Princeton University Library."

This compilation of articles has one limitation. With a few exceptions, it does not include comprehensive information about the Shoshones who live on the western Nevada reservations originally created for the Northern Paiutes or areas in which there is a predominant Paiute population. This includes Fallon and Walker River. In the early years of this century, some Shoshone families of central Nevada moved to western Nevada where their descendants still live among the Paiutes. The compiler found it difficult, if not impossible, to identify the names of all Shoshone individuals mentioned in the articles about the western Nevada reservations. It is hoped that other scholars or interested persons will compile Native Nevadan newspaper articles about the Indian reservations and colonies in this sector of the state. Although there are Paiute people living on the Duck Valley Reservation in northeastern Nevada, this reservation was originally created for the Western Shoshones, and thus articles dealing with this area have been included.

This guide is divided into two sections: the first is an index of the titles of Shoshone articles, and the second is a subject index.
