NEVADA TROPHY FISH PROGRAM

The Nevada Trophy Fish Program began in 1968 to recognize the talents of anglers for catching notable-sized fish in the state. There are 30 different fish species in the program and over 600 different streams, rivers, lakes, ponds, and reservoirs throughout the state to catch them from. All anglers have to do is catch one of these fish at or over the minimum weight, weigh and measure it, take a picture, fill out the entry form, and mail it to us. If you suspect you have a state record, you also must weigh your fish on a scale that is “weight certified” and have an NDOW employee witness it.

In 2010, anglers caught and entered 111 trophy-sized fish. Big fish are coming from everywhere around the state, as you can see throughout the pages of this booklet. Good examples of large fish include mackinaw from Lake Tahoe that reached over 20 pounds, a 42-pound striped bass from Lake Mohave, and a channel catfish that exceeded 11 pounds in the Walker River. “Big”, however, is just a relative term where fish are concerned, for instance, the record size yellow perch in Wildhorse Reservoir is only 1-pound, and it was tied 4 times in 2010. The table below shows the 22 fish caught in 2010 that became water and/or state records.
