NEVADA TROPHY FISH PROGRAM

The Nevada Trophy Fish Program began in 1968, recognizing the talents or luck of anglers catching notable-sized fish in the state. There are 28 different fish species currently for you to enter in the program and over 600 different streams, rivers, lakes, ponds, and reservoirs throughout the state for you to catch them from. Generally, all you have to do is catch a fish at or greater than the minimum weight, measure and weigh it, take a picture, fill out the entry form, and mail it to us. It is important that if you suspect it is a state record, you must weigh it on a scale that is "weight certified" and have an NDOW employee witness it.

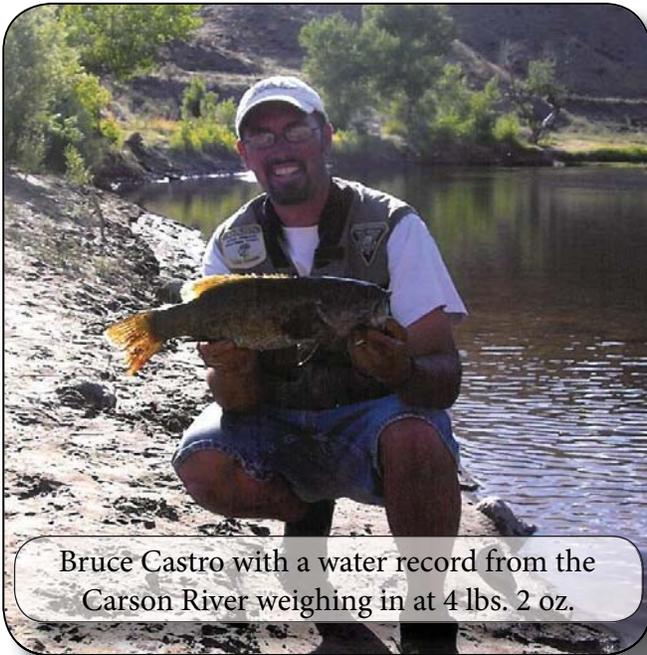

The greatest angler accomplishments for the 2012 Trophy Fish Program are shown below with 29 new water records that ranged from a 7 ounce green sunfish from Harmon Reservoir (near Fallon) to a 19 pound 7 ounce carp from Sparks Marina Pond. No State records fell this year, but overall there were 179 fish entered in the program for 2012. This year, 25 anglers (out of 91 entrants) received more than one trophy fish certificate. Among the top were Louis Varela with 25, John Ako with 20, Jimi Crowley with 11, and Kent Burroughs with 10. These were dedicated anglers generally catching several types of fish all year long and from multiple waters. You will notice again this year that not all fish entered met the minimum weight requirement. Some waters around the state, generally smaller creeks just do not have the ability to grow large fish or, as in many cases, never have had a trophy fish entry. Therefore, entering a smaller fish may establish the water record for a particular species and earn you a certificate.

New this year was the Native Fish-Slam. This program was established to familiarize anglers with native sport fishes found in Nevada. Native sport fishes include Lahontan, Bonneville, and Yellowstone cutthroat trout, redband and bull trout, and mountain whitefish. All you have to do is catch one of these species, take a photo of yourself with it, and complete the form and enter it. From talking with anglers that participated this year, it was also a great way for them to see much of Nevada that they had never experienced before. So far, four anglers have completed catching all six native species, but Steve MacMillan was the first to complete the Slam by July 13. There is no time limit for catching all the species, so take as long as you need to get around our beautiful state and experience Nevada's native sport fish.
