

AMERICAN CROW

Season Dates (Inclusive)	Open Counties	Limits Daily/Possession
Sept. 1 - Nov. 17, 2010 and March 1 - April 15, 2011	Statewide	10

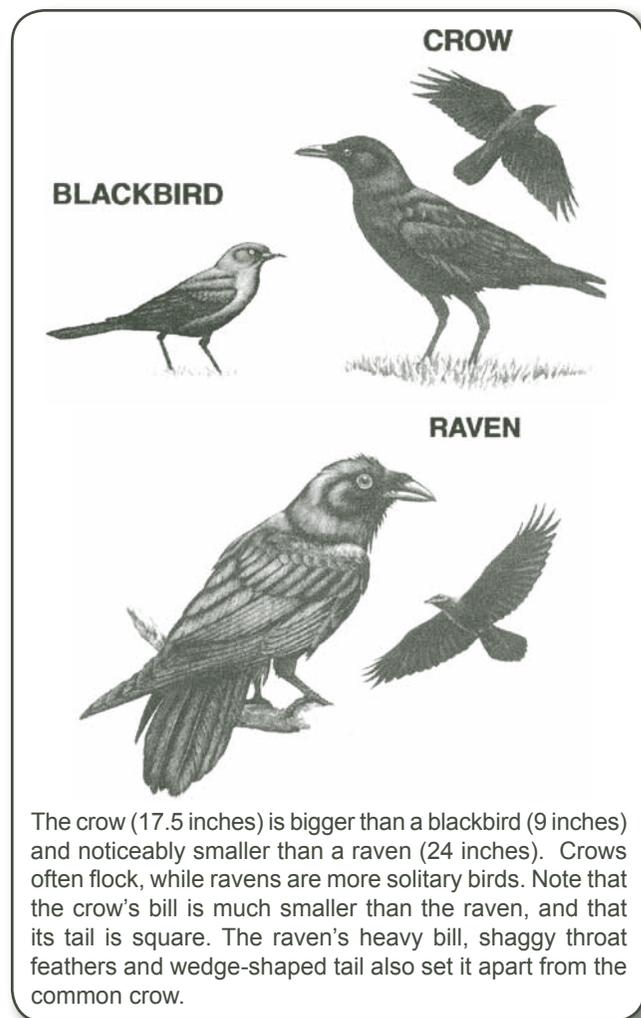

SPECIAL REGULATIONS/INFORMATION

SHOOTING HOURS: Sunrise to sunset daily. Shotguns only.

OPEN to nonresidents.

NOTE: All crows must be retrieved and removed from the field.

Season closed on common ravens. See illustration.

The crow (17.5 inches) is bigger than a blackbird (9 inches) and noticeably smaller than a raven (24 inches). Crows often flock, while ravens are more solitary birds. Note that the crow's bill is much smaller than the raven, and that its tail is square. The raven's heavy bill, shaggy throat feathers and wedge-shaped tail also set it apart from the common crow.

PICK UP YOUR NEVADA HUNTER'S JOURNAL TODAY

Year: _____

A Message from the Nevada Department of Wildlife

This Hunter's Journal is being provided to you for two purposes. The first is to provide you with a place to chronicle the results of your days afield in Nevada. In this regard, you will be assisting your own memories of the pleasure you received hunting game animals in the Silver State. You are encouraged to compile these journals over the years as a testament to your hunting career, and refer to them from time to time to relive those great times on the mountains or in the marsh.

The second purpose is to have this information about your hunting efforts in an easy-to-retrieve format. The Department will be sending you a post-season questionnaire periodically to collect harvest and hunter effort information. The data that you will provide assists our biologists to assess harvest tendencies and to track population trends. Good data also allows us to make sensible recommendations for habitat management and hunting regulations. As a result, we can all continue to enjoy the wildlife resources of our wonderful state.

We Thank You for Your Assistance

Small game hunters have a new tool to catalog their annual take - the Nevada Hunter's Journal.

In the free pocket-sized journal, sportsmen can record their memories of pursuing small game. The Hunter's Journal has a section with a place to record such information as species pursued, location, conditions, and harvest information. It is available to sportsmen purchasing licenses at NDOW offices.

NDOW typically mails out small game questionnaires well after seasons have ended. Hunters who use the Hunter's Journal will be able to provide accurate harvest and days afield, key information sought within the post-season questionnaires.
