Our campus is great for a stroll during Artown — or year-round.

Here, you'll find a statue by sculptor Gutzon Borglum, who carved Mount Rushmore.

The region's largest arboretum (our entire campus). A "Jeffersonian academic village" — our "Quad" — on the National Register of Historic Places. The "I Am My Brother's Keeper" Holocaust exhibit at Jot Travis. And so much more, you'll need a website to discover it all. Check our current exhibitions, and come up for a visit.

Letter from the EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

In 1996, the City of Reno Arts and Culture Commission, consisting of business and arts executives, developed a plan to use the arts to improve the city's self-image and give locals a reason to visit downtown. Their idea: highlight the community's cultural depth, ignite civic pride and create a climate for the cultural and economic rebirth of our region. Now in its 20th year, Artown celebrates two decades of art, culture, and expression. Since its inception, Artown has been the catalyst for tremendous change throughout the community. I believe that Artown has been a facilitator for the creativity emerging in our community-- through science and technology in addition to the arts. What used to be a hot summer month, nestled between the Reno Rodeo and Hot August Nights, has blossomed into the most beloved month of the year in Reno and one of the largest arts and culture festivals in the country.

The arts in July lift the spirits of our residents and visitors. Artists presented are of the highest caliber and will heighten awareness of cultures around the globe. We challenge audiences to expand their definition of culture by presenting artists who use the arts to convey passion for their heritage and rich traditions of their culture. This year, we commissioned three artists that grew up and were raised in Reno through Artown's formative years. We have come full circle with the inclusion of these artists. I am proud to represent our community in July! Here's to the next 20 years.

ABOUT THIS YEAR'S POSTER ARTIST

Artist Franz Szony was just a little boy in Reno when Artown started. He grew up attending many Artown events and after graduating high school, he developed into an extraordinary artist in the medium of painted photography.

Artown commissioned him to create the original piece of art for the poster, website, Little Book cover and other collateral. His work clearly captures nuances that beautifully depict the essence of 20 years of Artown.

Franz has crowned his character with the famous "starburst" that sits atop the "Biggest Little City" arch in downtown Reno. This brings us full circle, directly relating a Reno icon with the cosmos.

We are fortunate to have Franz share his inspiration behind Artown.

ABOUT THIS YEAR'S COMMISSIONED ARTISTS

In November, Artown sent out a call for a regional production to be developed, coordinated and executed during the July festival. We received many submissions, but the panel of judges selected not one but two projects that best fit the flow and ethos of the festival.

MICHELLE LASSALINE AND NATE CLARK: THE TAEUBER TROUPE

An ongoing, travelling, interactive performance that visually connects downtown Reno to the arts. While dressed in handmade costumes and masks, there will be a performance and interaction from a platform on a mobile stage. Experience a chance meeting with a furry friend and an opportunity for an animal portrait. Every Family Night, The Taeuber Troupe will arrive into the park in their whimsical traveling stage. Appearing from the sidelines, the Troupe will stop and draw individual portraits for the audience.

EVE ALLEN: DESTINATION DANCE

Eve Allen, founder of Downtown Dance Collective, presents "Destination Dance" On July 23, this dance troupe will take the audience on a sight specific dance walking tour through downtown Reno. The alternative locations of each performance venue provide the inspiration for movement creation. Tour stops include the Ross Manor, Truckee River Whitewater Park, Wild River Grille, the Washoe County Courthouse, and the Lake Mansion.

EVERY HOUR. EVERY ARTIST. EVERY EVENT.

The Artown 2015 Little Book is your pocket guide as you explore the events all over the Truckee Meadows. Use these handy icons to find your favorite events. Support the Arts and don't miss a thing this season.
