EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Las Vegas Visitor Profile Study is conducted monthly and reported annually to provide an ongoing assessment of the Las Vegas visitor and trends in visitor behavior over time. In the past, data has been collected within a fiscal year, from July through June, and all reports prior to 2004 displayed fiscal year data. Based on collective feedback of the LVCVA's resort partners and other key audiences, beginning with the 2004 visitor profile the data is presented following a calendar year timeframe. With data now reported on a calendar year basis, the 2003 figures in this report may differ from the fiscal 2003 figures reported in previous visitor profile studies.

This report presents the findings from in-person interviews GLS Research collected as follows: 3,345* from January 1, 2003 to December 31, 2003, 3,300 from January 1, 2004 to December 31, 2004, and 3,600 from January 1, 2005 to December 31, 2005, and from January 1, 2006 to December 31, 2006. Approximately 275 in-person interviews were conducted per month in or near Las Vegas hotel-casinos and motels in 2003 and 2004, and approximately 300 interviews per month in 2005 and 2006.

This report presents the results of calendar year 2006, as well as the previous years (2003, 2004, and 2005). Statistically significant differences in the behavior, attitudes, and opinions of visitors from year to year are pointed out in the text of the report. Throughout this report, if data is not presented for all four years, it is because the question was not asked for all four years.

When we note that a difference between subgroups on a particular measure is "significant" or "statistically significant," we mean that there is a 95% or better chance that the difference is the result of true differences between the subgroup populations and is not due to sampling error alone. When we note that a difference between subgroups is "not significant" or "not statistically significant," we mean that there is less than a 95% chance that the difference is the result of true differences between the subgroups.

* Data was collected in fiscal year intervals through June 30, 2004. Because the sampling is pre-stratified based on monthly visitor flow information from the previous year, the number of interviews collected each month is not exactly 275. The yearly total for 2003 (3,345) is the sum of the monthly interviews completed in calendar year 2003. Starting in July 2004, monthly quotas were adjusted to achieve the yearly quota of 3,300 in 2004 and 3,600 in 2005 and 2006.

In order to maintain a questionnaire of reasonable length, some questions in the Las Vegas Visitor Profile Study were not asked in Calendar Year 2006. These questions will be rotated back into the questionnaire in Calendar Year 2007 and subsequently asked every other year. In addition, several new questions were added to the Las Vegas Visitor Profile Study in Calendar Year 2006. These questions are noted in the text accompanying the figures in the body of this report.

This section presents the research highlights. The findings are presented in detail beginning on page 14.

REASONS FOR VISITING — EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Nineteen percent (19%) of 2006 visitors indicated they were first-time visitors to Las Vegas. Just under one-half (49%) of all visitors said their primary reason for visiting Las Vegas this trip was vacation or pleasure, down from previous years – a drop accounted for partly by an increase from previous years in those who said they came to gamble (11%) or to visit friends and relatives (11%). A similar pattern can be seen among repeat visitors, 46% of whom came for vacation or pleasure (down from prior years), 13% who came to gamble, and 12% who came to visit friends and relatives (both up from past years). The majority of first-time visitors continue to come primarily for vacation or pleasure (67%), with almost none (1%) saying they came to gamble, and few (5%) having come to visit friends and relatives. The average number of visits over the past five years was 6.2. The average number of visits in the past year was 1.7.

INTRODUCTION

The Las Vegas Visitor Profile Study is conducted monthly, and reported annually, to provide an ongoing assessment of the Las Vegas visitor and trends in visitor behavior over time.

More specifically, the Las Vegas Visitor Profile aims:

- To provide a profile of Las Vegas visitors in terms of socio-demographic and behavioral characteristics.
- To monitor trends in visitor behavior and visitor characteristics.
- To supply detailed information on the vacation and gaming habits of different visitor groups, particularly gaming and non-gaming expenditures.
- To allow the identification of market segments and potential target markets.
- To provide a basis for calculating the economic impact of different visitor groups.
- To determine visitor satisfaction levels.

In order to maintain a questionnaire of reasonable length, some questions in the Las Vegas Visitor Profile Study were not asked in Calendar Year 2006. These questions will be rotated back into the questionnaire in Calendar Year 2007 and subsequently asked every other year. In addition, several new questions were added to the Las Vegas Visitor Profile Study in Calendar Year 2006. These questions are noted in the text accompanying the figures in the body of this report.

METHODOLOGY

Starting in 2005, GLS Research, in consultation with the LVCVA, developed a new sampling plan based on marketing seasons. The goal was to obtain a sufficient number of interviews by marketing season to permit comparisons across seasons.

Qualified survey respondents were visitors to Las Vegas (excluding residents of Clark County, Nevada) who were at least 21 years of age. In addition, only visitors who planned to leave Las Vegas within 24 hours were asked to complete the survey.

The results of the Las Vegas Visitor Profile have always been weighted to more accurately reflect actual visitors to Las Vegas in terms of mode of transportation, lodging type, and lodging location. Specifically, the transportation data are weighted based on a compilation of data provided by the LVCVA, McCarran International Airport, and the Nevada Department of Transportation. The figures used to weight the occupancy data are based on independent surveys conducted by the LVCVA, which provide the number of available rooms and occupancy rates for the destination on a monthly basis. Because of the change to the data collection methodology in 2005, it was necessary to add a third weighting factor, namely visitor flow by month, to correct for the discrepancies in visitor flow introduced by the new sampling plan. Visitor flow information is also based on independent surveys conducted by the LVCVA as part of their ongoing room occupancy audit.

Visitors were intercepted in the vicinity of Las Vegas casinos, hotels, motels, and RV parks. To assure a random selection of visitors, different locations were utilized on each interviewing day, and interviewing was conducted at different times of the day. Upon completion of the interview, visitors were given souvenirs as incentives. Verification procedures were conducted throughout the project to assure accurate and valid interviewing.

Interviews were edited for completeness and accuracy, and entered into a computerized database for analysis. The information was then analyzed using statistical software packages available to GLS Research. The questionnaire administered to visitors is appended to this report in the form of aggregate results.

Throughout this report, bar charts are used to illustrate the data. The data presented in these charts are based on the total sample of respondents for 2006 and the preceding years, unless otherwise specified. In charts using proportions, those proportions may not add to 100% because of rounding or because multiple responses were permitted.

When we note that a difference between subgroups on a particular measure is “significant” or “statistically significant,” we mean that there is a 95% or better chance that the difference is the result of true differences between the subgroup populations and is not due to sampling error alone. When we note that a difference between subgroups is “not significant” or “not statistically significant,” we mean that there is less than a 95% chance that the difference is the result of true differences between the subgroups.

This report presents the results of the 2006 study, as well as for the previous calendar years (2003, 2004, and 2005). Statistically significant differences in the behavior, attitudes, and opinions of visitors from year to year are pointed out in the text of the report. Throughout this report, if data are not presented for all years, it is because the question was not asked in every year.

In order to maintain a questionnaire of reasonable length, some questions in the Las Vegas Visitor Profile Study were not asked in Calendar Year 2006. These questions will be rotated back into the questionnaire in Calendar Year 2007 and subsequently asked every other year. In addition, several new questions were added to the Las Vegas Visitor Profile Study in Calendar Year 2006. These questions are noted in the text accompanying the figures in the body of this report.

Details on the findings and conclusions of the survey are presented in the following sections of this report.
