PRESIDENT'S REPORT

RENO, NEVADA, February 28, 1914.

To His Excellency, TASKER L. ODDIE, Governor of the State of Nevada, Carson City, Nevada.

DEAR SIR: In compliance with the requirements of the statute governing official acts of the Nevada State Agricultural Society, we have the honor to herewith present an account of the proceedings outlining acts of said board during the year ending December 31, 1913, together with the financial exhibit of receipts and disbursements as compiled by our Secretary.

Financial provision having been made through legislative enactment appropriating $5,000 for maintenance of the State Fair during the year 1913, also the sum of $3,000 for improvements and repair work, the Board of Directors were called together on April 2 last and arrangements perfected for holding the fair, with dates fixed for September 22 and 27, inclusive, the selection of these dates being for the purpose of carrying out the customary practice of immediately following the closing dates of the California State Fair held at Sacramento. At this meeting a complete program was outlined, supervising committees appointed, and work was ordered commenced.

At the outset it was apparent to the managing board that they were confronted with discouraging conditions that showed an absence of the old-time enthusiasm in the matter of arranging for a fair and race meeting, which condition can rightly be attributed to the fact that a period of five years had passed since the holding of the last State Fair, during which time all interest seemingly had become dormant and lost. The committee, however, imbued with a keen desire for the accomplishment of success, spurred on by the urgency of the situation, immediately got busy, and the work of advertising and cooperative solicitations was inaugurated.

In the preparation of the premium booklet a complete revision was rendered. All premium awards were raised, and in many instances were doubled. Changes were made in all classifications and rules and regulations governing acceptance of all classes of exhibits, and these conditions, being more liberal than heretofore, were favorably commented upon by all concerned. The State Printer furnished us with about 1,700 copies of the booklet, and a thorough distribution of the same was made throughout this State and certain portions of California and Oregon. Every individual livestock raiser of all classes, and those engaged in agricultural and horticultural pursuits, poultry raisers—in fact, all classes of industries even of lesser note—were furnished copies of this booklet together with an accompanying circular letter outlining the entire program and urging their cooperation.

Distribution of 1,500 copies of our racing and speed program was also made throughout this State and among horsemen generally of the Pacific Coast, Utah, and Montana. This program covered a mixed class of races tending to meet the accommodation, as nearly as possible, of all classes of racing stock that might desire to participate in the sport, together with the liberal rules and regulations under which the program would be conducted and the payment of nearly $5,000 in purses to winners. The program was pronounced to be of unusual attraction and seemed to meet the favor of horsemen.

A personal appeal was also made to the several commercial clubs, chambers of commerce, and other civic organizations represented by such counties as Elko, Humboldt, Churchill, Esmeralda, Mineral, Lyon, Clark, and Washoe, soliciting their special support in an endeavor to induce each county to make an exhibition covering all classes of its products at the State Fair; also calling attention to the fact that the Society was offering a silver cup trophy to the county making the best general display. As a result of this appeal we were highly gratified by the immediate receipt of favorable responses and evidence of much activity at many localities, and, as was subsequently shown, several counties entered this contest, all of whom presented an exhibit of high order of their respective county production. After due and careful consideration upon all material points the judges awarded the silver cup trophy to the exhibit from Clark County. This exhibit was worked up under the special supervision of the Chamber of Commerce of Clark County, with headquarters at Las Vegas, Nevada, some 500 miles away.

During the progress of arrangements the work of repairing and making improvements upon the park grounds was being vigorously prosecuted by the committee appointed for that purpose. The buildings and grounds were in a very dilapidated condition. The installment of new water pipes throughout the entire grounds and buildings was necessary. Shingling the entire roof of the grand stand, painting grand stand both inside and outside, painting fences and other smaller buildings, replacing doors, window sash and glass in nearly all buildings, repairing livestock and exhibition stalls, including the construction of 140 feet of exhibition showcases to be placed in the pavilion, constituted the line of work accomplished. This committee, consisting of Directors Alex Dromiack, E. L. Drappo, and James O'Neill, are entitled to the very highest praise and meritorious mention for the excellent work accomplished. The task was a hard one which required the personal attention of some member of the committee during the whole time the work was being done. Therefore it may be well said that the $3,000 appropriated for this express purpose was judiciously and economically expended.

The proposition of selecting suitable and advantageous quarters for holding the pavilion exhibition for a time involved a perplexing question. It was urged by some members that the building located upon our park grounds be accepted, but any action tending to recognize this suggestion was strongly opposed and backed up with the argument that past experience had demonstrated the fact that all similar undertakings were failures. In perfecting arrangements for the fair during the year 1907 the park building was selected for the pavilion exhibition, the result of which proved impracticable and partial failure, as not more than one-half of the space room was occupied with exhibits. Members soliciting exhibits were met with many refusals, those refusing giving as their reason the belief of the probable uncertainty of success. It is generally understood that the pavilion exhibition is more calculated for and has only met with success as an evening entertainment. Therefore, by reason of the unfavorable and out-of-the-way location of our park grounds, it would be impossible to obtain anything like a favorable attendance during the evening hours. In making arrangements for the fair of 1908 the committee, profiting by the experience of the year before, selected the Ætna Skating Rink. Being conveniently located within the city limits of Reno, the hall was filled to its full capacity with a display of high-class exhibits, and the affair was conceded to be a grand success and well attended. This year, with the above facts presented, the committee concluded to lease the structure located upon Belle Isle to meet this requirement.

These facts are more particularly mentioned by way of an explanation in behalf and supporting the action of those who had this matter in hand, as information has reached us that there has been considerable adverse criticism passed about by a certain few who certainly could not have understood the true situation of affairs in this regard.

The pavilion exhibition, conducted under the able supervision of Director S. H. Wheeler as superintendent, and Mr. P. H. Mulcahy, as assistant superintendent, we are pleased to announce, was a success in nearly all respects, and, as shown by admission receipts, was well attended. The only obstacle that seemed to work any hardship was that of inadequate space room, and the arrangement and placing of exhibits necessitated much crowding and in many instances somewhat placed at a disadvantage the proper display of many important features. However, the management accepted all exhibits presented; none were refused. At the close of the fair all articles were properly delivered to the exhibitor; nothing was lost, and no report of any damage done. All premium prizes, as shown by following lists, were promptly paid. The management were the happy recipients of many congratulatory comments from exhibitors. As an evidence of this, we quote a small portion of a lengthy article that appeared in the Lyon County Times, published in Yerington:

Among the many recipients of favors on Thanksgiving Day in Yerington there is no other, perhaps, so well pleased as Clark Guild, Secretary of the Commercial Club. The occasion is his receiving this week from Reno a box containing six medal trophies won at the State Fair last fall. There are two gold and four silver medals: works of art that the winners are justly proud of, as they are trophies won on exhibits of rare and exceptional merit, both mineral and agricultural, and that in competition with the richest districts in the State. The medals are real works of art, hand engraved; on the inverse side are scenes representing mining and agricultural activity; and on the reverse side a fine engraving of the great seal of the State of Nevada.

We desire to also state that in addition to the above-mentioned awards Lyon County exhibits also took 22 first, 11 second, and 6 third money premiums, as will be shown upon examination of the list attached herewith; also that several other counties were equally successful, with Clark County in the lead of all. We wish also to make special mention of the Elko Dry Farm exhibit. This exhibit should command the most eminent consideration by all who may be interested and engaged in agricultural pursuits in this State. It is currently acknowledged that the successful operation of dry farming should rightfully be considered this State's greatest asset. Favorable results achieved, as shown by the experiments of the Elko Dry Farm plant, are certainly encouraging, and their continued efforts should be strongly supported. Other portions of the State were also represented by exhibits upon these lines and have also accomplished very good results, but the Elko Farm received the highest and most favorable recognition by the judges and was awarded first premium prizes upon each classification of the exhibit. Payment of these premium prizes, we regret to state, we were compelled to deny by reason of the fact that the Elko Dry Farm plant is a state creation and financially maintained by state appropriation. This action was in compliance with a ruling adopted many years ago upon the advice and authority of the State's Attorney-General; and has ever since been complied with by this Association. We make mention of these facts for the reason that the Elko Dry Farm management made application for payment of the prizes awarded with the added statement that those in charge of the exhibit had personally paid the entire expense incurred in bringing the exhibit to Reno and arranging for the display with the expectation of being partially remunerated upon receipt of the prize money that might possibly be awarded. This entire matter was properly placed before the Executive Board for their consideration; and after having been fully discussed it was their belief that the expenditure incurred in making the exhibit should have been met and paid out of their own appropriation fund, and our Secretary was thereupon instructed not to pay the prizes.

We now take pleasure in referring to a feature of our exhibition that may be justly classed as the "backbone" to all fairs, namely, the livestock exhibit, which took place upon our park grounds under the very able supervision of Mr. Theo. W. Clark, who is also prominently identified with the Nevada State Experiment Farm located in Reno. The efficient and satisfactory manner in which this feature of the State Fair was conducted elicited compliments of the highest praise from all exhibitors and others concerned.

The livestock exhibition in the aggregate was one to be justly proud of and generally conceded to have excelled exhibits of all previous State Fairs held in this State. Nearly every stock-raising locality in Nevada was represented by some display of their best production, also portions of California, Oregon, and Idaho, and it was our pleasure to note that, in comparative view upon points of good quality and high standard breeding in all classifications, in no material point was Nevada's showing outclassed. The degree of advancement attained as evidenced by the favorable results shown in this last grand exhibition of live stock, points very strongly to the fact that valuable experimental work upon educational lines has steadily and profitably progressed in this State during the past few years and deserves the highest meritorious mention.

The entire livestock exhibit presented at the fair was awarded cash prizes in the aggregate sum of $1,779.38, together with 20 gold and 5 silver medal trophies, out of which California exhibits received $481 and 4 gold medals; Idaho exhibits received $192 and 2 gold medals. The balance ($1,106.38) with 14 gold and 5 silver medals was distributed among the Nevada exhibitors. A complete list of these payments will be shown by the Secretary's report submitted herewith.

The $50 trophy, offered by the American Berkshire Association of Springfield, Illinois, for the best exhibit of Berkshire swine bred and raised in the State of Nevada, was awarded to the exhibit entered by Mr. Reay Mackay of Reno. Mr. Mackay also received from our association on the same exhibit 6 first, 3 second, and 4 third cash prizes amounting in the aggregate to $126, and our Society gold medal. This was the best display of high-class bred swine ever shown at any of our State Fairs, and the merit of Mr. Mackay's achievement commanded the highest compliments. The educational value derived from these accomplishments can be appreciated by reason of the well-known fact that the swine-raising industry in this State had not, until about two years since, reached anything like a standard of proficiency. Failures and heavy losses by "hog cholera" were frequently reported from many portions of the State that seemed to denote a general lack of educational knowledge upon this particular line of industry.

The poultry exhibits were awarded in cash prizes $161.38 and a large number of blue ribbons. This exhibition was under the charge of Mr. J. W. German, a poultryman of extended reputation throughout the State. We regret to state that it was with considerable difficulty that the principal features of this exhibit were secured on account of the very unfavorable climatic conditions during the month of September. We are advised by the best-informed poultry breeders in this State that during the month of September fully 90 per cent of the standard-bred birds are molting and utterly unfit for exhibition. It is also claimed that in this State birds do not reach a condition of perfection until about the middle of January. Therefore, confronted with this small percentage of available poultry stock of exposition fitness, it is not surprising that a more elaborate display was not shown. In California, it is stated, the conditions are somewhat different by reason of a warmer and less changeable climate and birds are entirely through their molting season and considered to be in their prime as early as the 1st of September, but, notwithstanding this particular difference, it can be truthfully stated that in all other respects our climate is considered to be especially adapted to poultry raising and so evidenced by the successful operation of the many extensive poultry farms well established in our State, and, judging from the reports we have at hand, it can be further stated that no other line of industry can make claim of greater advancement achieved during the past two years than that of the poultry industry.

Passing upon events touching features that may have detracted or added to the success of our state exhibition, we hardly believe it will be deemed out of place if we call attention to a few facts concerning that part of the program, namely, the racing events.

Dating from the time of our first fair in this State over forty years ago it is a well-known fact that the horse-racing feature in connection therewith has, through its popularity and patronage, aided very materially toward the financial success of the occasions and the privilege allowed in placing bets upon their favorite horse, either by the Auction Pool or Pari-Mutual method, seemed to stimulate interest and meet the good favor of all participants. The desire to "have an interest," together with the spirit of speculation, is always abroad in distinct evidence no matter what sport may be patronized. The race horse in the eyes of many is a necessary evil. From earliest history down to the present time men have raced horses in spite of all manner of opposition raised by fanatics and individuals who seem to hold to the belief that they were created for the sole purpose of directing affairs in keeping with their own narrow and warped ideas.

To those who have to do with fairs and race meets there is a recognition of necessity for catering to every element of society, and because it is inherent for men to want to bet on a horse race, if it can be done with moderation and all dishonest practices eliminated, surely no harm can come to society or future citizenship if such be given their chance.

Our last Legislature passed an enactment prohibiting all classes of gambling upon racing events. If the measure had covered all devices except the "Pari-Mutual" method it is our certain belief the enactment would have been favored by the public generally. As it is, the chief element of the sport has been eliminated and a deadly blow to the game enacted. This condition was highly manifest during the progress of arrangements for the racing program in connection with our fair. The speed program committee for a time were very much discouraged on account of the many refusals of horse owners to participate, and it was with great difficulty and hard rustling that they succeeded in securing sufficient racing stock to carry out the program, with but very little assurance of success. The racing fraternity conceded that purses hung up by our Society were liberal and all that could be expected under the circumstances, but, as stated by owners of several stables of high-class runners, "If we are prohibited from backing up our entries with small bets at least, you compel us to remain at home." The committee were the recipients of many similar declarations. Contests for purse money alone do not seem to offer the sufficient inducement to secure participation of horsemen living at a distance which incurs considerable expense for transportation to and from Reno and other points.

It is freely admitted everywhere that the bookmaking method of gambling at the race track encourages too much betting and causes bettors to risk more than they can afford, to such an extent that it becomes a demoralizing influence and a menace to public welfare. The device is pernicious and one that creates an inordinate desire to "get something for nothing" and "quick action on the money," and is surrounded with a horde of undesirables and their dishonest practices, and wherever it has prevailed has entailed disaster by arousing public sentiment which has resulted in legislation antagonistic to race-track betting of all kinds. Therefore, it may be truthfully stated that the bookmaker has had his inning and caused laws to be enacted which were his undoing.

In France the improved Pari-Mutual system was evolved to take the place of the bookmaker and this was given a tryout during the year 1891. It was found to be such an improvement over the old Pari-Mutual system, which was cumbersome and easily manipulated by dishonest operators, that it has been accepted as the one method which provides opportunity for backing individual opinion without intervention of the third party with a pecuniary interest in the result.

We are advised that the States of Maryland, Kentucky, Idaho, Montana, Missouri, and, just recently, Colorado, have adopted this method as being all that is necessary for the betting public.

We are also advised this same method is to be adopted at all racing events throughout the provinces of Western Canada, British Columbia, and Ontario, during the 1914 racing season.

During the year of 1913 the Pari-Mutual machines alone were in evidence at all the principal meetings and gave such unqualified satisfaction that the 1914 season will see a greater number of machines installed.

The advantages of the Pari-Mutual machines are many, but one of their brightest features is that the public makes the odds, receiving back all the money invested, less a small percentage. It also discourages plunging, and, as all transactions are on a strictly cash basis, discourages a losing bettor wagering more than he can afford, which the credit or "finger" system of bookmaking permitted.

Dwelling upon this subject as we have, we are actuated only through motives tending to advance the very best interests of our association and community generally, and, under the guidance of our observations, together with the many expressions of opinion that have been given us upon this subject, we have no feeling of hesitancy in stating that if our next legislative body will so modify the anti-gambling enactment now in effect to the extent of permitting the adoption of the Pari-Mutual system of betting on racing events in connection with our State Fairs, the action will be generally greeted with indisputable favor.

The racing program has always been most liberally supported by the best citizens of this community with financial contributions, it being currently understood that no portion of the State's appropriation can be applied for this purpose. This year, through the efforts of Director E. L. Drappo, the sum of $1,648 was collected, notwithstanding the reported hard times, for which the Directors are highly appreciative, and we are instructed to extend to each donator our most hearty thanks.

Before closing this outlined report of our stewardship for the year, we wish to call attention to the fact that our park grounds are very much in need of several new outhouses, also about thirty exhibition stalls for the purpose of livestock display. The inefficiency of this accommodation at our late fair placed at a great disadvantage the proper display that should have been given to a large number of livestock exhibits. In this connection it is our intention to have a carefully prepared estimate made that will show the probable expense that may be incurred to meet this requirement with a view of asking the next Legislature for an appropriation to cover the same. It is also the belief of our directorate that steps should be taken toward securing suitable quarters for the pavilion exhibitions, of adequate capacity, conveniently located within the city limits, provided with essential office and storerooms, the construction of which should be upon lines similar to those in other States, and the building to be the home of the Association. This acquisition is deemed highly essential to successfully carry out the valuable purposes for which the organization was created. Full realization of this necessity was never before more apparent to the management than this year by reason of the unfavorable conditions met in their efforts to secure necessary accommodations for the State Fair.

We also wish to extend and express our highest appreciation for the able and excellent work accomplished under many difficulties by the managing board, the most active of whom were Directors E. L. Drappo, Alex. Dromiack, S. H. Wheeler, and Jas. O'Neill, all deserving personal mention; also to the Board of Examiners, for their courtesy and promptness in passing upon our accounts; also to the worthy State Printer, Mr. Joe Farnsworth, for his promptness and the satisfactory manner in which the premium booklet was turned out of his office.

We remain, most respectfully, yours,

R. W. PARRY,
President.

W. D. PHILLIPS, Secretary.

their brightest features is that the public makes the odds, receiving back all the money invested less a small percentage. It also discourages plugging, and, as all transactions are on a strictly cash basis, discourages a losing better waiting more than he can afford, which the "credit or "buyer" system of bookmaking permitted.

Dwelling upon this subject as we have, we are warranted only through motives tending to advance the very best interests of our association, and community generally, and, under the guidance of our operations, together with the many expressions of opinion that have been given us upon this subject, we have no feeling of hesitancy in stating that if our next legislative body will so modify the anti-wagering enactment now in effect to the extent of permitting the adoption of the Pari-Mutuel system of betting events in connection with our State Fair, the action will be generally greeted with indubitable favor.

The racing program has always been most liberally supported by the best citizens of this community with financial contributions, it being currently understood that no portion of the State's appropriation can be applied for this purpose. This year, through the efforts of Director E. L. Hapgood, the sum of $1,648 was collected, notwithstanding the reported hard times, for which the Directors are highly appreciative, and we are instructed to extend to each donor our most hearty thanks.

Before closing this outlined report of our stewardship for the year, we wish to call attention to the fact that our past grounds are very much in need of several new outbuildings, also about thirty exhibition stalls for the purpose of livestock display.
