PRESIDENT'S REPORT

RENO, NEVADA, January 1, 1915.

HON. EMMET BOYLE, Governor of the State of Nevada, Carson City, Nevada.

HONORED SIR: Complying with the requirements of our state statute governing official acts of the Nevada State Agricultural Society, we have the honor to herewith present to you an account of the proceedings outlining acts of the board of directors of said society during the year ending December 1, 1914, together with the financial exhibit of receipts and disbursements as compiled and shown by our Secretary's report herewith attached.

The board of directors was regularly called together May 15, 1914. After selecting officers to act during the ensuing fiscal year, together with the appointment of all necessary committees, it was also decided to hold a state fair and race meeting conducted upon the same lines and conditions as in past years, with dates fixed to open September 21 and close September 26, the usual custom being followed to open our fair upon the closing dates of the California fair held at Sacramento.

Preparatory arrangements for carrying out the adopted program were immediately commenced.

In the preparation of the premium booklet the committee made some small reductions in the livestock premiums and a few changes in the regulation of the classifications. Eighteen hundred copies were very neatly printed by the State Printer, and a thorough distribution of the same was made throughout our State and many other points on the Pacific Coast, including Utah and Montana, and, judging from the extensive exhibits that were presented, we have good reason to believe the booklet was favorably considered, more particularly among the livestock producers.

The racing program commanded its usual attention. What was considered to be a very attractive and efficient program of mixed racing events was prepared and adopted by the committee appointed for that purpose.

Purses in the aggregate of nearly five thousand dollars were made to cover these events, and 2,000 copies of the program were extensively distributed among horsemen and the racing fraternity generally. The usual methods were adopted for advertising our exhibition through the medium of our state press, and for their very liberal and effective support rendered we feel highly appreciative and extend our most hearty thanks.

From the outset the management was highly encouraged by reason of the manifest interest strongly in evidence in many portions of our State. A silver cup trophy was offered by our society to be awarded to the county making the largest and most artistic display of its own productions. It was pleasing to note the spirit of interest that seemed to prevail in several counties aspiring to win this trophy, the most prominent being Churchill County, Elko County, Lyon County, and Clark County, all of whom are entitled to the highest worthy mention for the very excellent exhibitions of their productions. The contest between these counties was so close and the degree of creditable showing so keen that it was very difficult for the awarding judges to arrive at a conclusion as to what county was most entitled to the trophy. Several sets of judges were called upon to pass upon the exhibits. After due deliberation the decision arrived at was to award three cups instead of one, as follows: To Clark County, a prize cup for the best horticultural exhibits; to Churchill County, a cup for the largest display of their county products; and to Lyon County, a cup for the most artistic exhibit. This decision was fully satisfactory to all contestants. In addition to the cups each county was the recipient of many cash premiums, together with many gold and silver medals.

The pavilion exhibition at Belle Isle, under the supervision of Director S. H. Wheeler, with Mr. P. H. Mulcahy as his assistant, was very ably managed, considering the inadequate space room at their command. It is much to be regretted that we could not be accommodated with quarters sufficiently ample to suitably arrange all of the pavilion exhibits without being compelled to the resort of crowding together that seemed to create so much dissatisfaction. Many exhibits were placed at a great disadvantage by reason of crowding to make room for another exhibit, thus destroying many important features of both. We wish to here state, as it is generally admitted by all who have participated in these state exhibitions, that not until adequate pavilion room is provided by the State will these exhibitions meet with the success that should justly be accorded the undertakings. These conditions create dissatisfaction among exhibitors and bring about lack of interest and final failures.

The poultry exhibit, also at Belle Isle, was quite an improvement over that shown last year. It was in charge of Mr. J. W. German, a poultryman of high ability who has taken great interest in his endeavors to raise the standard of this most important industry in our State. Notwithstanding the fact that a large percentage of poultry is molting during the month of September, it was only through special care and nursing that made it possible for poultrymen to make the creditable display that was on exhibition. The number of birds was nearly twice as large as that of last year, showing evidence of increased interest taken and a disposition to promote this valuable industry. These exhibits received $185 in cash premium awards.

While there was a large percentage of increase of industrial exhibits in all classifications over that represented last year, the most notable in this regard was that of live stock. Never in the history of any Nevada State Fair has there been such a complete and creditable showing of live stock that was recorded this year. This feature was under the supervision and proficient management of Mr. Theo. W. Clark and assistants. The able manner in which this entire display was taken care of and handled elicited the highest praise of all participants. The exhibits in number were nearly double the showing of last year. At an early date from the entries received the necessity of making provision for considerable exhibit stall room for their accommodation was evident, which was consummated at considerable extra expense, and, at that, the accommodations were greatly lacking the opportunity and convenience of proper advantages that should have been given. However, the best was accomplished that could have been attained under the unfavorable circumstances.

The Secretary's report shows that $2,331 was paid out in cash premiums on livestock exhibits to the different classes as follows:

Horses.....	$493.00 and	5 gold medals
Cattle.....	841.00 and	2 gold medals
Sheep.....	424.00 and	6 gold medals
Swine.....	573.00 and	7 gold medals
Total.....	$2,331.00 and	20 gold medals

The greatest showing increase of premiums paid out upon any class over that of last or any previous year are those paid to the swine exhibits, disclosing the fact of the largest representation ever before recorded at any state exhibition. Not until very recent years has the hog-raising industry reached anything like a standard class in this State. Last year a very creditable showing was rendered with a marked improvement over previous years. This year the entries were more than doubled and of greater variety. There was strong competition in the entries of Berkshires, Poland Chinas, Chester Whites, and Duroc Jerseys. All breeds received the most favorable comments by reason of the classy standard attained. Mr. R. J. Yates of Goldfield, Nevada, is entitled to worthy mention and praise for his most excellent exhibit of Berkshires, Poland Chinas, and Duroc Jerseys, which was the largest of any single exhibit, and who was very deservedly awarded in the aggregate $165 cash premiums, together with three gold medals. The entire exhibit evidenced proper educational knowledge in the swine industry. The fine collection of Duroc Jerseys entered by Mr. J. E. Thorp of Stockton, Cal., is also deserving meritorious mention. Mr. A. B. Humphrey of Mayhews, Cal., and Mr. J. L. Gish of Laws, Cal., both presented a most excellent collection of Berkshires.

The horse and cattle representation was one that will not be very soon forgotten, particularly by those having any interest in that line of industry. The degree of competition that existed among the cattle exhibitors, compared and viewed from the standpoint of high-class breeding, certainly pointed to a standard of proficiency that would be impossible to outclass at any exhibition. The largest display of any single breed was that of Jersey dairy cattle. Large entries were made by N. H. Locke & Co. of Lockford, Cal., J. E. Thorp of Stockton, Cal., F. E. Moberly of Fallon, and A. E. Baker of Fallon, and, while all exhibitors received a fair share of the premiums awarded, the entries made by N. H. Locke & Co., being the largest, received the highest recognition in premiums and medals. There were large entries of Shorthorns, nearly equaling the Jersey entries, made by the Howard Cattle Company of San Francisco, W. T. Short of Reno, Trosi Bros. of Reno, and Churchill Creamery Company of Fallon. It was pleasing to note the spirit of amicable contest and good feeling induced by the influences of keen competition that so prominently prevailed among all of the stock exhibitors throughout the entire entertainment. The educational value derived through the agency of these state collections was never more fully demonstrated. The privilege of comparing the good points of all exhibits, together with those not so good, was entirely free from any restraint, and surely this is as it should be in order that all benefits may be fully realized.

The task of awarding the ribbons and premiums upon the livestock exhibits was assigned to Professor F. W. Wilson, to whom we feel highly grateful for the satisfactory and able manner in which this work was performed. His earnest endeavors fostered a feeling of appreciation among all exhibitors.

Next to mining, the livestock industry is this State's greatest asset. Anything tending to promote advancement or aid experimental operations in that direction, in our belief, should receive through the medium of our next legislative body and state officials such financial support that will place our society on a strong working basis.

We wish to call especial attention to the Elko Dry Farm exhibits, which show highly valuable results from their experiments. The Elko Dry Farm is a state institution, financially maintained by our State, situated in the Lamoille Valley, Elko County. The judges who passed upon these exhibits commented as follows: "This is the best exhibition of dry-farm products ever displayed in Nevada, and the superintendent, Mr. Wilfried Sohlman, is to be highly commended for his earnest work in showing what can be accomplished in dry farming in Nevada." In addition to these were exhibits representing other localities that also show results of advancement over experimental work of last year. It must be confessed that the accomplishment of successful operation of dry farming in this State would certainly be declared a great and valuable asset, and in our judgment no amount of expense should be spared wherein evidence of possibilities may exist to produce such results.

It is our desire to call attention to another matter that our incoming legislative body will be called upon in due time to extend to our society the hand of relief. By reference to our financial report of cash received, it will be observed that the sum of $3,500 was borrowed and taken into the State Fair account. This action on the part of our executive board was a matter of necessity by reason of the fact that after meeting the demands of all premium awards very little funds would be left to pay other expenses, and it was therefore deemed advisable to borrow a sufficient amount to enable the board to meet and clear up all obligations incident to the fair. The loan was obtained upon the security of a note signed by nearly all members of the directorate board, with the understanding that a relief measure would be presented to our next Legislature asking for an appropriation to cover the amount borrowed. The operative expenses of conducting our late fair were not unusual or in excess of those incurred in the conducting of any fair during past years, but, as we have previously stated, the numbers of exhibits represented in all classifications were so far in excess of similar occasions that it is very natural to expect that premium awards would be in the same proportion, and, consequently, this accounts for the large amount of premiums awarded by the judges of the several departments; and it may be very truthfully stated that it was money very profitably expended. Another cause that aided very materially, and is accountable for our financial shortage in a measure, was the extra expense incurred in repairing and placing in good condition our state park grounds, which were badly damaged by a heavy rainstorm that occurred during the early spring. A large portion of the city of Reno, together with our park grounds, was under water for many hours, causing considerable damage to the park grounds. It took what little funds we had on hand, together with $500. We were compelled to draw from our state appropriation fund to meet the expense of this repair work.

The matter of providing the Agricultural Society with an appropriation of a sufficient amount to successfully carry out their intended operations during the years 1915 and 1916 is one deserving the most careful consideration. We believe the general and sincere desire of all industries and the better class of promoters throughout the entire State is for the yearly continuance and strong maintenance of the State Fair exhibitions. Each yearly exhibition has manifested an increased stimulating interest, clearly demonstrating the fact that its advertising value is somewhat appreciated. In past years it has been the custom to appropriate $5,000, which is entirely insufficient, as out of this amount the entire advertising expense has to be paid, together with that for the help, necessary repair work, and all premiums, prize cups and medals; therefore, calculating upon the basis of the showing made in carrying out our late fair, it is our judgment that a provision of at least $10,000 should be made for each year. Even a greater amount could not justly be considered out of place, and it is our hope, and we strongly believe, that action upon the proposition by our state officials will be of a favorable nature. Furthermore, we sincerely hope it will not be forgotten or overlooked that we are most urgently in need of a suitable pavilion exhibition building of adequate capacity, provided with essential office and storerooms and necessary equipment, etc., also from thirty to forty exhibit stalls on our park grounds for livestock display, together with several smaller outhouses, such as a poultry-room, new toilets, etc.

In other words, we might better state that our aspirations are elevated to the point wherein we entertain the strongest hopes that some day in the early future the State of Nevada may be placed on the same favorable footing as all other States in the way of accommodations for holding state exhibitions. The State Fair, including the racing feature, promotes a unity of good feeling among the people of our State and a pride in the accomplishment of achievements in the State.

Referring to the racing feature in connection with our fair, and the much-talked-about and overagitated question in opposition to the pari-mutuel method of speculation that has been asked to be introduced in connection therewith, we have this to say: That through our personal observations during the past two years, taken from the standpoint of opinions as we have found them, we are of the certain belief not more than 10 per cent of our very best citizens have in any manner indulged in this opposition. The main opposition seems to prevail among a few who really have no true knowledge whatever regarding the matter. It is our claim that if it is wrong for one to back his individual opinion by placing a bet of his own liking upon his favorite horse in a contest, so is it equally wrong to bet on a baseball game, football game, polo, the price of wheat or corn, or the many stocks listed on the market, bridge whist, and church raffles, yet, as a result of our investigations, we find that a very large majority of those who are so strongly opposing the adoption of pari-mutuel betting, are daily indulging in the class of gambling that we have quoted.

Darwin has said that "Man was distinguished from all other animals in that he laughs." He might have added that the civilized man is distinguished from all other men in that he will bet on a horserace. The spirit of speculation is an element of our inborn nature possessed by nearly all individuals, and to any effort to curb or control that bit of nature opposition is immediately aroused. And, as is always the case with such a condition, public sentiment that may exist makes no fine discrimination as to the methods of betting, judgment is pronounced that all classes of betting is pernicious, and the comparatively innocuous system of the pari mutuels, and the scarcely reprehensible methods of auction pool, have no chance to vindicate their claims to consideration.

The pari-mutuel system is an ace that seems to have dropped in the discard by mistake. The experience in our country is but a case of history repeating itself, for, wherever the successful operations of the bookmaker prevailed, the trail of disaster existed that worked the final accomplishment of his undoing.

The pari-mutuel system has been adopted by racing boards of many States, and its successful and satisfactory operations are meeting with general favor. We will quote a few lines of an article published in a daily paper in Baltimore, Md., of recent date: "For the past year the running tracks of Maryland have confined their speculative feature to the pari mutuels altogether, entirely excluding the bookmaker, and the result of their experience, which is summarized in a recent statement sent out from Baltimore, is of interest, and is stated that after the experience of only one year the French machines have so decidedly impressed the racing managers that a bill will be introduced into the coming session of the Legislature, repealing the present law which leaves bookmaking or mutuels optional with each track, and prohibiting the former system everywhere by means of a state-wide racing commission." It is, therefore, our sincere hope that some favorable action may be taken by our legislative body at the coming session, as we have no hesitation in stating that the lovers of the racing sport, comprising the best elements of our citizens, are most enthusiastic in their clamors for the restoration of privileges granted during the good old days when at its best.

At our last two race meets considerable "oral betting" was indulged in, mostly by horsemen and the sporting element, which method does not appear to appeal to the good favor of the general public. The mystery that usually surrounds these transactions seems to bear the earmarks of jobbery that create lack of confidence and consequently a lack of interest in the sport, and, furthermore, taking it for granted that because of an inheritance we must have betting at our fairs and race meetings. Conceding that the bettors comprise a vast element of our citizenship, none of whom wish to be classed as open violators of the law, and admitting an inability to frame a law which will eradicate the practice of betting in any form, will it not be better to surround this element of society with a protection in the form of legalizing the "iron men" under restrictions and supervision, thus insuring every man an "even break" so far as it may be attainable and the association a source of revenue to help meet the vast expenses of conducting a fair or race meeting?

Before closing we wish to make mention of the fact that the business men in Reno subscribed the liberal sum of $1,702 that enabled the racing committee to meet their obligations in the payment of purses, and to each individual subscriber we wish to express our appreciation and hearty thanks.

We wish also to extend a word of praise for the most excellent service and able manner in which the managing board conducted the affairs of this most successful exhibition, each member performing well all duties assigned to him. There were many obstacles to meet during the progress of arrangements, which were in a great measure overcome.

Also, our thanks to all state officials who so kindly aided us in our efforts, particularly our worthy State Printer, Mr. Joe Farnsworth, for his promptness and satisfactory manner in which our reports and premium booklets were turned over to this office.

We remain, very sincerely, yours,

W. H. MOFFAT,
President.
